Note:

About the Conference
The Albany Medical College’s Anesthesiology Autumn Update and Review will be a critical assessment and review of current and controversial topics in Anesthesiology. We will offer in-depth reviews of current anesthetic practice as well as examine the data that may or may not support the use of new therapeutic options.

Who Should Attend
This course is designed to foster discussion and dialogue among all members of the anesthesiology care team. Anesthesiologists in private practice as well as academic settings will find many topics of direct relevance to their daily practices. Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists, Anesthesiology Residents, Student Registered Nurse Anesthetists, medical students interested in anesthesiology as a career and general medical practitioners involved in the perioperative care of patients will all find the topics of interest and direct professional importance.

Course Objectives
At the conclusion of the course, participants should be able to
• Discuss the differences in anesthetic management of major open versus endovascular surgery, and when specific monitoring devices are indicated.
• Assess their own practice and perioperative environment for the optimal management of obstetrical and pediatric emergencies.
• Describe the differences in traditional regional anesthetic techniques when compared to ultrasound-guided techniques and begin to develop the fundamental skills necessary for successful ultrasound-guided regional anesthesia practice.
• List the ASA guidelines with regard to infection control and how to ensure their practice is compliant with the ASA standards.
• Assess the evidence for specific anesthetic management techniques in the bariatric population.
• Approach the simulation component of the ABA recertification process with a balanced understanding of what the outcome measures are and how best to prepare for a simulated patient encounter.

Tuition
