Financial Assistance Program

Albany Medical Center provides financial help to patients in need. If you reside in New York and you do not have health insurance or are worried that your insurance may not cover your hospital bill in full, we may be able to help.

The Albany Medical Center Financial Assistance Program helps uninsured and underinsured patients with household income up to 400% above the Federal Poverty Guidelines. Assistance is determined based on household income and family size. We understand each patient has a unique financial situation and encourage you to contact a hospital representative if you need assistance. Each application for assistance is handled confidentially and requires the cooperation of the patient or patient representative. During the application process the patient will be assessed for other state or federal insurance options. These could be Medicaid, Social Security Disability or plans available through the health exchange.

Income Guidelines

Based on the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines in effect at the time of the determination.
